Dairy

- 65% to 75% of the world's population is lactose intolerant, and those who are not intolerant are only so because of a genetic mutation.
- Heavy marketing has made us believe that we need the milk of another species to survive. The only milk our body every truly needed was our mothers'.
- There is nothing in dairy that we can't get from plants. With the calcium found in kale and broccoli even having better absorption than calcium found in cow's milk.
